PRESS RELEASE

Livingston, Flight Dispatch Assistant for Korean Air

- Operational support, flight plans, briefing to crews, all operations' management from Milan Malpensa Airport, will be provided by Livingston

Livingston, the Italian private carrier for leisure flights, announces an agreement with one of the most important market leader carriers in South-East Asia: Korean Air, the Korean company with headquarters in Seoul (South Korea).

Livingston has been chosen in view of technical and training skills in possession, as determined by qualitative results consistently achieved from its operations team. The agreement, which ran from March 2010, stipulates that Livingston is responsible for the operational assistance (Flight Dispatch Assistance) and the management of flight operations on all flights in departure and arrival in Milan Malpensa.

For the Korean Airlines (KAL) there are seven flights a week, commercial and cargo, operated by Boeing 747-400 and Airbus a330-200 and directed to Seoul.

"Another recognition that demonstrates the potential of Livingston, the excellent know-how of its teams and the important confirmation of our high standards of training and operational requirements, that belongs to a team made up of great professionals," said Giancarlo Celani, CEO and Accountable Manager
